Protecting your Privacy on the Internet

There are frequent instances where you may wish to maintain your privacy by keeping your Internet traces secure from others. We suggest that you consider using an anonymous proxy to Change IP addresses.

Private Proxy is a 128-bit encrypted anonymous proxy that guards against Internet search engines, Internet Service Providers and IT Departments from tracking the Internet communications associated with your computer.

Private Proxy is a secure tunnel that routes all Internet communication to a secure anonymous proxy server. This provides two benefits to you:

- Secure communication to an anonymous proxy that eliminates an Internet Service Provider, or an IT Department, from knowing what websites are visited and what data is exchanged between your browser and the sites you visit;
- Secure browsing of websites without the sites being able to track back to your computer.
